Nostalgic mood: Granny candle holder

Design: Rudi Wulff

Northern Lighting is proud to present Granny – a part of our new collection, Unplugged by Northern Lighting.

Granny lights up the interior the old-fashioned way. Instead of flipping the power switch, strike a match and watch as cosy candlelight spreads over the room. A contemporary take on the classic candlestick, Granny is designed with modern-day innovations that heighten its appeal. The base's edges rise upwards to catch and contain melted wax before it drips onto the surrounding surface. The holder is made with a sliding brass knob that makes it easier to remove leftover wax and place a new candle inside.

Crafted in steel and brass and made in two heights, Granny is available in matt black or matt white. With four versions to choose from, Granny is a striking design that hopefully will be enjoyed for generations to come.

The Designer: Rudi Wulff

Rudi Wulff is a Norwegian designer based in Oslo. After receiving a masters degree from the Oslo School of Architecture and Design, he established his own studio.

Wulff has explored some ground-breaking ideas through his work, creating new concepts for two-wheeled transportation, urban nomadism, flexible electronics and static display systems. Wulff's work is underpinned by principles of Scandinavian design, and his products are often characterised by functionality, clean lines and sleek surfaces.

Wulff also created the tactile Oblique tea light holder for our new Unplugged by Northern Lighting collection.
