

CHINOTTO

Design: Luigi Caccia Dominioni, 1973

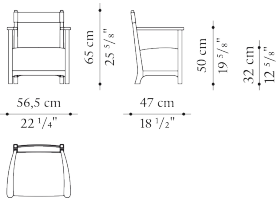

With a wave of a magic wand this scaled down armchair is extraordinarily comfortable. It's a miniature masterpiece that leaves you spell-bound. The generously padded seat is lower than average but the height of the armrests and the position of the seat back make sitting down and standing up effortless. You automatically feel relaxed and yet elegant and it is just right for reading a book or pulling up in front of the fire to enjoy a chat with friends. Chinotto is ideal where space is at a premium yet still holds its own in bigger settings thanks to its clean, pure lines. It's a passe-partout. It's a trump card, easy to move around and lending itself to the moment.
